Step into Leo Castañeda's Neo-Primordial Sci-Fi Quest at Locust Projects this Fall September 10 – November 5, 2022

Leo Castañeda, Digital Render of the Exhibition at Locust Projects

[Miami, FL] Locust Projects presents Herramientas (Levels & Bosses), a transmedia adventure game experience by Miami-based multimedia artist Leo Castañeda. The immersive installation at Locust Projects invites visitors to play a new video game being premiered in an environment that echoes the game itself and traces the evolution of the game through paintings by the artist, a virtual reality experience, sculptural furniture, immersive video, wall drawings, and more. Levels & Bosses, the game at the core of the Herramientas exhibition, traverses sci-fi environments where all landscapes, technology, and entities share sentience and interconnection. The exhibition opens with a public reception to meet the artist on Saturday, September 10, 2022, 6-8pm.

Mutating between analog and digital platforms, the Herramientas exhibition at Locust Projects represents the next stage in the multi-year Levels & Bosses game development project originated by Castañeda, and serves as the launch of a new fine-art video game studio, Otro Inventario, the first of its kind in Miami. Castañeda, and the team at Otro Inventario have developed in Levels & Bosses, a groundbreaking video game that upends traditional archetypes of game “bosses/adversaries” while players explore nonlinear, science-fiction-inspired levels with a broad range of interdependent abilities, such as camouflage, vibrational touch terraforming, and laser communication. To those that know and understand gaming and game terminology, this expands the lineage of independent games revolutionizing the industry.

Navigating landscapes inspired by Castañeda's interests in 18th century Romantic painting, Latin American abstraction, and the liminal environments of South Florida, Colombia, and the Brazilian Amazon, the game follows "The-Other" on a quest across timelines to solve landscape puzzles that adapt the aftermath of a cataclysmic implosion, re-imagining structures of antagonism and progression in games.

Herramientas (Levels & Bosses) explores the evolution of Castañeda's work as an individual artist throughout the project's development leading into the launch of Otro Inventario, a collaborative art house game studio that uses principles of sustainability and interdependence to expand interactions and world building possibilities in video games and gaming communities. Serving as one means of demo-ing the game created with Unreal Engine 5 software, the exhibition is envisioned by Castañeda and the Otro Inventario team to evolve into future iterations at tech/gaming conferences, and more.

Levels & Bosses is made possible with support from Oolite Arts' Ellies Creator Awards in 2018 and 2021; Emergent Strategy Ideation Institute's Praxis Projects in 2022; The Harpo Foundation in 2021; and a Locust Projects Wavemaker Grant in 2018. The artist and Otro Inventario wish to thank the MUD Foundation and Studio Shell for their support of Herramientas (Levels & Bosses).
